Brownlow's Speech Disturbed by Fire

Noise of Apparatus on Way to Blaze Distracts Banqueters' Attention.

Commissioner Brownlow's two official children-the police and fire departments-caused him considerable trouble

The policemen were gathered around the banquet table at Rauscher's and the Commissioner had just begun his address. Suddenly the faint clang of fire bells was heard. All ears were distracted, despite efforts to keep their attention on the speaker.

The clang became louder and the shricking of the siren on the chief's auto added to the din as the machine dashed by the hall. The Commissioner, who had been struggling bravely to keep his thoughts on his speech, broke down, and all heads turned toward the windows.

"I seem to be butting in on another department." said Mr. Brownlow, as the bells died out. The policemen relaxed, and the speech went on. The fire was in a wagon on a vacant lot in the rear of 1021 Nineteenth street

Washington Woman Organized War Work in Community Near Her Country Home.

Life in England today is given an inimate and graphic portrayal by Mrs. Apolline M. Blair, who has just returned for a winter in Washington after sixteen months in England at her home near Canterbury, where she labored unceasingly in war relief work.

Mrs. Blair's experiences, coming direct from southern England, bring a gripping inside view of the daily life there and the changes war has wrought. Her picture is all the more representative, as it comes not from cities, but from a village—Littlebourne, in Kent—just three and a half miles from Canterburgs.

For sixteen months around her picturesque vine-covered place, "Elmleigh," Mrs. Blair bas, she says, been hearing continually the "tramp, tramp, tramp of men marching, waiting, training for the front," In that section alone between $5.000 and $50,000 men are engaged in military maneuvers. Each day above her house from ten to thirty aeroplanes would pass. Mrs. Blair makes the statement: "In the beginning of June there were 5.000,000 men under arms in England." Isi5. Mrs. Blair found that no center had been established there for war work. It was due to the vital efforts of this American woman from which ashington has also so greatly benefited in its music sphere—that relief work was organized in Littlebourne. Throughout the past year volunteer workers have been welcomed at Einleigh once or twice a week, for the making of hospital supplies; the usual English hospitality being observed in the serving of tea.

The first outlay for supplies was through the generosity of Mrs. Blair, but as the work enlarged the community took up its share of the obligation. By means of a "Rummage Sale," held on the grounds of Elmieigh in the autumn of 1915, enough money was realized to furnish the center with supplies for the entire winter. Kent is a great hop country, and the sale was held just after the hop picking season. The hop pickers came to offer there bit to the cause. An entrance fee of a penny (two cents in our money) was charged; tea and cake were sold, as well as the many denations so familiar in our Rummage Sales. This fall another sale at Elmleigh brought enough money for materials for this winter—wool for the school children to knit, cloth for bandages. Thus the center will continue its activities, which have been made secure through the foresight and endeavor of Mrs. Blair.

Presented With Koran.

As a token of appreciation for her laors, Mrs. Blair was presented by Col. Austin Smith with an East Indian treaswhereat the sturdy tar gunawed liver and said:

"Well, if you are Alice Jelifcoe, I'm Winston Churchill!"

The little woman was Lady Jellicoe, however-wife of Admiral Jellicoe—for it is thus that the English women are sharing the burdens of their country, and Lady Jellicoe is foremost in receiving the incoming hospital transports, seeking to alleviate much of the suffering that is the most difficult to handle.

It is incased in a silver holder on one side of which is a magnifying glass showing the red and gold binding of this sacred book. This glass makes it possible to read the very small type, and the Koran, thus made portable, is the cherished possession of every Indian soldier.

The nearest a Zeppelin bomb came to Littlebourne was a distance of three miles. Mrs. Blair saw three of these Zeppelin shells. One was empty, another partly discharged, and the third, which fell into a swamp, was entirely intact. This last she describes as seeming to be a large metal bowl come fifteen inches in diameter. In the center is the tube for powder, which is about five for powder, which is about five inches in diameter, and around this,

In touching on the Botanic Gardens, Colonel Harts said that if it were deemed necessary to have a garden within the city for official purposes a greenhouse might be established at some convenient location, but advocated the removal of the present gardens and suggested Fort Hamilton Hill as an appropriate site.

The speaker, in the course of a discussion of the committee's recommendation for extension of the Anacostia driveway to link the War College with Potomac Park, said that a systematic treatment of the water front is necessary both from the point of view of utility and beautification.

Improvements indersed by Colonel Harts included extension of Klingle Ford valley; acquisition of ground, on the east side of Sixteethth street boulevard in extension of the Piney Branch the east side of sixteenth street boule-vard in extension of the Piney Branch section of Rock Creek Park; acquisi-tion of the Patterson tract for park purposes, and development of parkway from Zoological Park to Potomac Park. held in place by a network of wire and inflammable tar, are all sorts of destructive things—explosives and sharp pieces of metal or stone.

sharp pieces of metal or stone.

To guard against Zeppelin attacks every village has organized a corp of special constables. Mrs. Blair's son, Percy Blair, who was incapacitated for further work in the driving of an American ambulance in France, is one of these guardians. If a raid is reported in Littlebourne, the vicar of the parish, the Rev. Claude Joy, is rung up by 'phone. He goes on foot to summon these constables who each have a certain district to warn, or to work in if the need arises.

Retreat For Convalues The dependent families of Spanish War Veterans and of the men who are serving in the national guard on the Mexican border are to be the beneficiaries of an entertainment and social to be given this evening at the Pythian Temple by the Lineal Society of the Spanish War. Members of all the camps of Spanish War Veterans have been invited to attend, and an excellent program has been arranged.

The officers of the Lineal Society in charge of the affair include Mrs. Sadie Coulter, chief ruler; Mrs. Ethel Johns, chief of records; Mrs. A. M. Forrester, chief adviser; Mrs. Lena Rayermann, aide; Mrs. M. Holmes, chaplain. Mrs. Allyn K. Capron is supreme chief ruler of the international society. The dependent families of Spanish Elmleigh at one time was caring for eight horses, four army mules, and had a blacksmith force set up in the garage. It has also been a retreat for convales-Mrs. Blair tells how nearly all English estates have become overgrown, looking unkempt; but the reason is one looking unkempt; but the reason is one of conservation, as the grass is cut for hay. So it has become a matter of pride for Americans to keep up their place as far as possible.

But the English people do not talk war. The women turn their thoughts to gardening, roses, planting. With the men one sees amazing cheerfulness—the Tommy is said to be always singing—yet pervading all one finds a slogged, stubborn endurance.

How Transports Leave.

YOUNG WOMAN IS BUNCO GAME VICTIM

And those who go forth to fight? At Folkstone Mrs. Blair saw a sight that MANITOU SPRINGS, Col., Oct. 13 .was full of thrills and tears. It was a transport, packed to its limit. Like some giant silver bird, an aeroplane salled ahead of it, and, as further escort, two low, broad war boats steamed on each side of her. Thus was she convoyed midway to France, where a French convoy met her to act as safeguard to the shores of France.

Everyone loves the English navy. It is told how one of her "jolly tars," after being given both care and hospitality on his native shores again, asked in his rough, merry way: "Now, I want to know some of your names. You've been good to me and I want to know your names." Then, pointing to one little woman, he said: "What's your name?"

"Alice Jelicoe." the answer came; whereat the sturdy tar guffawed heartily and said: unsophisticated country youth could not make a trip to "the city" with-out running into a bunco man who fleeced him with a gold brick or shell game. Now things are different. It is the city folks who come to the vil-lages and have the old "shell game" worked on them in an up-to-date At least those are the sentiments

At least those are the sentiments of a young woman visitor from a Missouri city, who left here for her home recently.

During her visit the young woman met a young man who had a car. The latter was all attention to her. I few days ago he tried on one of her diamond rings, worth $350. It was such a tight fit that he could not re-move it from his finger, so he vol-unteered to go to a jeweler and have the ring cut off. She consented. He left her, but has not returned.

MRS. HOFFMASTER PRAISES "DRECO"

Friends Were Saying "Amelia Won't Last Long," But She Is Now Well and Strong, Thanks to the New Medicine.

"Dreco is a most worthy remedy and gladly recommend it," said Mrs. Frank Hoffmaster, of 33 Moss street, Reading, Pa. "I have been sick for two years and have called upon the doctor every week during this long time, and I was just as bad off the last week as I was the first; if anything, I was worse, and my friends began to whisper, 'Poor Amelia, she won't last long.' Indeed, If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach become rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it and not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is 'nexpensive and almost fasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, it inulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.—Advt.

Effects of the European war extend to the circulating department of the Public Library, according to the annual report of Dr. George F. Bowerman, submitted to the Commissioners today. Few foreigners registered, the report circulated 170,000 volumes through 116 schools.

"No methods could be so economical as ours," says the report, "and yet Washington, which is in a class by itself in its lack of branch libraries is from limited funds not even fully able to use this cheaper method."

Attention is directed to the need of a larger staff. The report covers the twelfth year of Dr. Bowerman's service in Washington.
